About NZIOB

The history of the NZIOB started in 1964 under the banner of the Australian Institute of Building (AIB). In 1983 the umbilical cord was cut, and the NZIOB was incorporated.

Throughout its history, the NZIOB and its membership have been very focused on performing two core roles:

1. Development of a collegial and energetic construction community that provides CPD and social events to a membership that is drawn across the entire sector.
2. Representing the entire construction industry as an articulate and reliable advocate and stakeholder.

With the former, the NZIOB is committed to providing our members with a great membership experience. For the latter, the Institute undertakes projects and represents the industry in a way that is consistent with our foundation principles, namely:

- Encouraging high performance within the construction industry and raising standards and productivity
- Representing the construction industry, and lobbying on its behalf
- Fostering construction research and innovation;
- Engagement with Government
- Providing quality Continuing Professional Development (CPD) events for industry.

Every two years the NZIOB National Board sets its strategic direction, with progress against the resultant Strategic Plan being evaluated every 60 days.

Member Benefits

1. Free for Students

We're encouraging the next generation of construction industry professionals with a free membership. As a student member, you get all the benefits of full professional membership for no cost. You'll be able to connect with practitioners, many of whom are managers or owners of construction businesses, and attend exclusive site visits, CPD events, and more. Apply for student membership on our website.

2. Network with the best

Through the NZIOB you'll meet up with professionals from across the entire property and construction sectors, not just people who work in your particular field. Getting together with those from other disciplines helps you build your knowledge, develop important professional and business contacts, and get a wider understanding of the industry, beyond the part you work in.

3. Build your professional profile

The NZIOB is a great way to build your profile. You can attend exclusive events, rub shoulders with some of the most important figures in the construction industry, and make an impression that can open up your career opportunities. Meeting face to face socially with other ambitious professionals can help you make your mark.

4. Discounted or free access to NZIOB events and programmes

The majority of the NZIOB's regional CPD events are free for members, while the Institute's conferences and Building Legends workshops provide discounted member rates (typically a 20% discount). NZIOB members also receive free entry into the New Zealand Building Industry Awards (as a nominee) and a discounted rate to attend the awards night.

5. Be at exclusive events

One of the main reasons that NZIOB has grown to become a leading professional organisation in the construction industry is thanks to the quality of our events calendar. Right through the year, you can gain knowledge and insights from leading industry figures at our exclusive seminars, catch up with colleagues and make new friends at our social events, and find inspiration at our conference and awards.

6. Play your part

As an NZIOB member, you're helping the construction industry by adding your ideas, thoughts, and voice. If you have been in the building industry for a while and care about it developing a more positive profile, increase its productivity, lift its standards, and more, the NZIOB is the ideal platform for you to make a difference.

7. Free industry magazines

As an NZIOB member you'll never need to pay for either BRANZ Build or RMBA Building Today magazines. You can simply ask for a free hard-copy version, and have it delivered to your door.

8. Apply for scholarships

The NZIOB Charitable Education Trust offers significant scholarships to people with an outstanding research or innovation proposal that leads to improvement of the construction industry. Visit the NZIOB Charitable Education Trust website nziobcharitabletrust.org.nz to find out more.
